

Ethel Osborn Prize

Ethel Osborn Prize

(The prize was established in 1983 following a bequest of $15,000 from John Gilmour in memory of his wife, Ethel Osborn Gilmour, an Australian and international singer and part-time Examiner in Singing with the Department of Music at The University of Queensland, 1952–1962.)

(a) Recommending authority

Head, School of Music.

(b) Eligibility

Students enrolled in the Bachelor of Music or Bachelor of Music (Honours) or a dual program that includes the Bachelor of Music or Bachelor of Music (Honours).

(c) Basis for award

One prize is awarded each semester for the most outstanding performance in classical voice.

(d) Nature of prize

Money equal to the annual income from the fund allocated to this Prize.